Kristin Vandersluis

Principal Consultant, NorCal CAPA PRO: A Table Group Network
Founder, Kristin Vandersluis Consulting

With 20 years of business, leadership and consulting experience, Kristin works with CEOs and executive teams to quickly and effectively apply the business management concepts captured in Patrick Lencioni's best-selling books: The Advantage: Why Organizational Health Trumps Everything Else in Business, The Five Dysfunctions of a Team, The Truth About Employee Engagement, and Death by Meeting.

Kristin is part of a network of Consultants and Practitioners (CAPA PRO) trained by Patrick Lencioni, and his firm, The Table Group. She provides customized consulting and training sessions around leadership, team effectiveness, and mastering the four disciplines of organizational health. Her clients span a broad spectrum of industries including public and private sectors, non-profit and healthcare.

Prior to launching her consultancy practice, Kristin was a member of the management team at Kaiser Permanente, the nation's leading integrated health care program. She also served as a Community Affairs Consultant for Jones & Stokes (now ICF International) and roles at JP Morgan Chase in San Francisco and The Make-A-Wish Foundation of Northeastern California.

Kristin earned her B.A. in Communications from the University of California, Davis. She lives with her husband and two children in Sacramento, California.

Endorsement

"Kristin is like having an in-house strategy expert, but better. Her wisdom, ability to evaluate situations, take in information, and her capacity to maintain clarity is not only rare but treasured. One of the most precious benefits of working with Kristin is the confidence I have knowing we'll hit our goals. She marries timelines, objectives and final results like no one else I've worked with."

— Nicole Rogers, Director of Marketing and Communications, Nugget Market, Inc.
